

Marathoning Still the Craze Most Popular Athletic Event Many Races Scheduled

THE athletic world in this country is surely suffering from a severe attack of "marathonitis." This disease is now in its acute form. In nearly every big city there have been or are going to be held many long distance races. In several cities in the east Marathon clubs have been formed, and weekly races are held. In fact, no athletic meet is complete without a Marathon contest on the program. The revival of this famous Greek classic was started in this country last summer when Johnny Hayes defeated Dorando Pietri in London in the famous Olympic event, and renewed impetus was given the movement when the pair met in New York last Thanksgiving eve. Many new stars have been discovered, and now America is now in the vanguard of the events on which they have held a monopoly for many years—long distance running. Within the last few months we have had all kinds of Marathons—ice skating, canoeing, rowing, walking, bicycling, roller skating and one real novel one which was held aboard a United States warship.

All Star Race April 3.
As a climax to this season's professional game an all star Marathon race has been arranged that should settle for a time at least the championship of the world. This big event is to be held at the Polo grounds, New York, April 3. The competitors in this contest will be Alfred Shrubbs, England's great distance runner, Tom Longboat, the Indian, Pietri Dorando, the Italian, and Johnny Hayes, the American. Matt Maloney, formerly of Ireland, but now of New York, and John Svanberg, who recently arrived in this country, may also start in the big race.

The meeting of the sextet in the final contest of the year on the first Saturday in April will be the big event of the season.

With such runners on the track, the contest will be almost as much one of headwork as of endurance. It promises to be the most interesting running contest the world has ever seen. All of the men will have had experience at the distance, and a masterful exhibition of jockeying is sure to be seen.

When Shrubbs met the Indian it was the Englishman's first Marathon. He never had run farther than fifteen miles, but at that distance he is probably without a peer today.

Shrubbs has always been unable to find a man in the world, barring Appleby of England, who can give him a race at ten or fifteen miles. He has been beating men in relays in this and other countries. In fact, his greatest ability has kept him from making much money. The Longboat race was his first big paying match.

The Italian may be the least liked of the four as the winner of the contest, owing to his propensity to use bad judgment and run himself out before the time for the final sprint. But Dorando has learned a lot since his arrival in this country. He showed great headwork in his last race with Hayes. Despite the fact that he has been cast in the shade, owing to his two defeats by Dorando, Johnny Hayes still has many number of admirers who think he can defeat the Italian, not indoors, but out in the open air. They claim the inhaling of the smoke and dust in the recent race with Dorando interfered greatly with his breathing apparatus.

The Indian will undoubtedly be the favorite for the big event. He has been running in superb form during the winter, and his two easy victories over Dorando and the one over Shrubbs have made him look invincible to many.

Boston Run April 19.
Many amateur races are scheduled to be held in the near future. The first of these to take place is the Boston Marathon, April 19. This race is an annual event and is always held on Patriots' day. All of the country's best amateurs are entered in this classic, and a good race should result. It was in this event that Tom Longboat, now the champion professional Marathon runner, made the fastest time ever recorded over the full distance, 26 miles 385 yards, that of 2 hours 22 minutes. Owing to some technicality the time was not accepted by the Amateur Athletic association. Preparations are well under way to make the run the most successful ever held in that section.

A novel idea will be introduced in that electric drays will follow the runners ready to pick up the men in the event of their succumbing to the pace. St. Louis is busy making arrangements for its annual Marathon race, which is scheduled for May 1. All the prominent western long distance men have promised to enter, and the committee is attempting to secure the entries of prominent runners of the east. Sidney Hatch, who has won the event for the last two years, Alex Thibault of Chicago and Joseph Forsyth of St. Louis have expressed their intentions of competing.

All Southern Event.
An all southern Marathon, open to any amateur in the south, is to be a generation of runners was born. Prior to this time no one in the United States offered prizes for men doing the Marathon distance of 26 miles 385 yards. Now the Marathon is the most talked of race in the world.

Nelson's Absurd Challenge.
Oscar Matthew Battling Nelson's recent absurd statement that he can defeat the entire American colony of English fighters, including Owen Moran, Jim Driscoll, Freddie Welsh and Jaboz White, any calm afternoon, all in the same ring, should be swallowed with a grain of salt. The lightweight champion's book writing and real estate investments seem to have clogged the game of tennis has surely become the national winter pastime of the country. With the exception of baseball, no other athletic sport has shown an equal growth or has so much capital invested in its promotion.

The next event on the calendar is the National Bowling association tournament, which is to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, starting May 24 and ending June 12.

Advices from every part of the nation are to the effect that there will be at least 500 teams in the New York tournament and that the number may reach 700. This is 50 per cent more than has ever entered a national tournament in previous years. A team has

AMERICAN HORSES ABROAD.

Turfmen From This Country Have Cracks in Many Rich Stakes.

The latest English racing calendar shows many American nominations to stakes. For the Champion stakes, 1,000 sovereigns, at one mile and a quarter, to be run Oct. 12, 1909, August Belmont and James R. Keane have seven of the forty-two nominations. Mr. Belmont

Mantell Miscast In "King John" A Gloomy Old English Tragedy Italian Zaza Rivals Duse

(From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.)

ROBERT MANTELL has not repeated at the New Amsterdam theater in "King John" the success he is credited with having attained on tour. Mr. Mantell as the mediaeval British ty-the medium, the average stage. Mr. Mantell is mechanical when he should be inspired. He gives you just so many quarts or yards of acting for your sixteen bits. In this role he is at least a histrionic peddler.

These are unpleasant words to use in reference to an actor of the ability, intelligence and courage of Mr. Mantell. They are merely a part of his penalty for allowing himself to be miscast. A good actor in the wrong play is almost as bad as a bad actor in a good play.

In the Castle at Northampton.
A scene that reveals effective acting is that in the rooms in the castle at Northampton where Arthur pleads boyishly with Hubert, petitioning him simply and endearingly not to burn out his eyes with the vicious tears of torture. And later the last hurrahs himself to death on the stones by leaping from the tower.

Mrs. Marie Booth Russell (Mr. Mantell's wife) played the role of Constance, mother of Arthur, in creditable fashion. James Brophy is acceptable in many particulars as Philip, king of France.

"Zaza" in Italian.
Mimi Aruglia returned to this city with her Sicilian playmates to present "Zaza" in Italian at a series of matinees at the Criterion theater.

Mme. Aruglia is a great actress, but she borders on the crude when on an American viewpoint in various important passages in the romantic drama that gave Mrs. Leslie Carter much of her fame.

Mme. Aruglia has a wonderful gift of facial expression. It seems almost that she can smile sweetly and leer and sneer at the same moment. She is as good in the first perhaps as at any other period, for she is captivating and alluring to a lofty degree in the flirtation scenes with Dufresne, the married man who wins her love only to cast a scorching blight on the actress' life.

Really a Second Duse.
No gross exaggeration has been perpetrated by the enthusiast who terms Mme. Aruglia "a second Duse." She has not the delightful polish of Duse nor the latter's gift of expressive repression so highly cultivated, but she atones for the lack with other valuable qualities in her art.

"The Gay Life."
Rehearsals of "The Gay Life," Harrison Grey Fiske's production of Roy McCordell's comedy, founded on his stories of theatrical life, are being held at Daly's theater.

"The Love Cure."
The story of "The Love Cure," which Oliver Herford has adapted from Leo Stein's interesting libretto, is described as being right up to the minute. It tells about an infatuated youth and a prima donna and the methods employed by the boy's family to cure him. In the end love is cured, but not exactly as the plotters hoped it would be. Edmund Eysler's music is of the modern Viennese school, with melodies that charm the ear and stirring concerted numbers.

Novelizing "Mary Jane's Pa."
Roy Norton, author of several novels, is putting the finishing touches on a novelization of Edith Ellis' comedy drama "Mary Jane's Pa," one of the few real successes of the season.

Invitations will be sent to all amateur athletic associations in Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Florida, Virginia and the Carolinas. Colleges and Y. M. C. A.'s will be urged to enter representatives in the race. A handsome trophy, probably a $250 cup, will be awarded the winner, which will carry with it the championship of the south.

History of Marathon Running.
Thirteen years ago the first of the modern Olympiads was held in Athens, Greece. The first three men to finish in the Marathon were Greeks: Louis, the winner, was greeted by a shout that resounded for miles around the stadium. Thousands of foreigners who were represented at that international meet acclaimed Louis a hero. It seemed proper that a Greek should win that classic event, the Marathon run. And when two other Greeks followed Louis across the line in the stadium it seemed to be definitely settled that in Greece the greatest distance runners in the world were bred.

It was the revival of the Olympic games at Athens in 1896 that created the recrudescence of interest in long distance running as a competitive sport. True, the English revived the most ancient and most simple of athletic sports about seventy years ago. Prizes were offered in competitions all over the country, and from that time until the present England has produced more good runners than any other country. The Englishmen go in for more distance running than for fast work, as can be easily seen from the country of all the records for distance from one mile up to twenty.

After the 1896 event in Athens the world evinced an interest in Marathon running. Many countries participating in the Olympiad took up this branch of sport, and in these countries a new his intellect. Nelson would surely have difficulty whipping any one of the first three, although his outweighs all of them.

Nelson was never famed for his clever boxing and never will be. His sole claim to fame is his freak endurance and bulldog courage. As far as science is concerned, any one of the English pugilists named can make him look like a preliminary fighter in a short bout. His victories have nearly all been won by sheer strength and freak enduring power. But tells how he got an inspiration for one victory from wearing the gloves that the famous John L. Sullivan wore in a fight with Ryan, but history steps in and complicates Nelson's reputation for veracity by informing us that the Ryan fight was with Bare Knuckles.

New York's Big Bowling Tourney.

With the great successes of the last winter, Interstate and the American bowling congress meet in Pittsburgh, which closed recently, coupled with several big individual and team match-been promised from Germany, and the west and the middle west will be well represented.

One of the most attractive features of the tournament will be the prize list, aggregating $50,000. The winning five man team will receive $1,000 guaranteed, while one-fifth of all the bowls that roll will receive some award. The team winning the two man event will get an amount in the vicinity of $300, while the individual champion will get about $500. These are the largest amount of prizes ever offered in a bowling event. When will also be gold medals for the winning teams in all events. Besides the regular tournament for the national championships special competitions will be held. There will be a tournament for social, fraternal, commercial and other similar teams conducted along the same lines as the national event itself, with special prizes.

To conduct a tournament of this magnitude it is necessary that arrangements be made on a monumental scale. Twenty-four alleys, side by side, are to be installed, with fifty booths separated from the alleys by an eight foot promenade and a seating capacity of nearly 20,000. One thousand dollars will be spent in the scoring system. Twenty-four immense boards will be hung in the middle of the Garden, over the alleys, so as to be plainly seen from every part of the huge amphitheater. The letters will be so large that they can easily be read and the record of every ball rolled made as it hits the pins. In other words, a bowler or spectator may easily follow every movement of every man.

JAMES C. MILES.

HOW THE EEL WAS NAMED.

Some years ago John Gibson, living some miles west of Dundee, in Monroe county, O., had a gray horse with a peculiarly wabby gait, which got over ground in pretty good shape, but was such a ludicrous spectacle that Gibson, who was something of a horseman, failed to have very much faith in his own colt and sold him for about $50 to a four wheeler dealer. Less than a year ago the purchaser seemed to lose faith in the horse, and a Canadian who happened along offered him $150. The deal was closed. Meanwhile the horse was developing into a pretty fair racer, and the Canadian people thought him worth training, although on account of his wabby gait they named him The Eel. A few years' training has done wonders, and the horse is one of the most noted on the turf.

In the Midsummer stakes of 500 sovereigns Mr. Belmont has named Doncourt and Mr. Keene the black filly by Disguise—Swiftfoot and the black colt by Disguise—Emma C, while Harry Payne Whitney has nominated the chestnut colt by Broomstick—Sally Navarre, the bay colt by Hamburg—Blus Girl and Newcastle II.

INVENTS NEW GAME OF POOL.

St. Louis Man Suggests Variations on Old Play.

Harry T. Matthews of St. Louis has originated a new game of pool, and it bids fair to become popular. Here's the idea:

When the balls are "racked" the "spot" balls are placed in the rear and inside the triangle and the seven "strikes" on the outside. The 1 ball is placed in the middle.

A chooses the "strips" and B the "spots." A plays only to pocket the "strips," B goes after only the "spots." The 1 ball is the odd one. After A or B has counted his seven he goes after the 1 ball. The one pocketing it wins the game.

If a player pockets the 1 ball before he has run out his seven he forfeits the game. The game is a cross between continuous pool and French pool. It can be played with one, two or more players on a side.

SMITH TO COACH JENN.

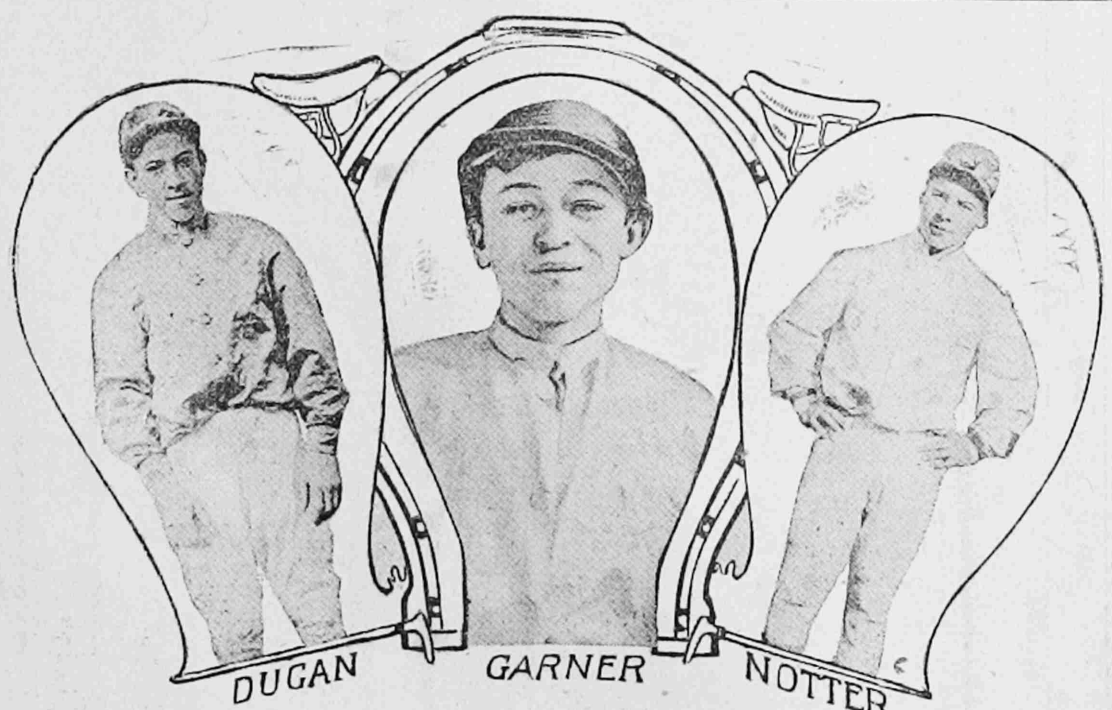

Sol Metzgar, head coach of last year's Pennsylvania football team, has refused the appointment to the position tendered him by the football committee. The announcement that Metzgar had again been chosen to lead the coaching forces of the Quakers came as a big surprise to those well versed in the red and blue's gridiron affairs, and his subsequent refusal to act in that capacity was the expected development. Metzgar has large business interests in the northwest that will not allow of his sojourning in the east during the autumn coaching the football squads of his alma mater for such a lengthened period.

It is generally thought that Andy Smith, who achieved a great reputation as fullback on the 1905 eleven and who assisted in the coaching last year, will be chosen to succeed Metzgar. In the event of Smith's not accepting the position, which, however, is regarded as unlikely, Bill Hollenback will probably be the man selected to direct Pennsylvania's gridiron affairs.

MARES HOLD STARTING RECORDS.

The trotting mare Grace Girdle, 2:09 1/4, and the pacing mare Citation, 2:01 3/4, are credited with starting in more races during the last season than any other two horses that were out.

Grace Girdle started in twenty-two races and trotted the third heat of her twenty-second race in 2:09 1/4. Citation started in fifteen races and in her fourteenth race reduced the Arizona pacing record to 2:02 1/4.

Three Famous American Jockeys Who Are Seeking Honors Abroad

Owing to the low scale of weights in this country, many crack horse pilots are forced to remain on the ground or else seek their fortunes on foreign turf. Jockey Joe Notter, who headed the winning list last season, is to ride for Baron von Weinberg in Germany. Eddie Dugan is to ride for Harry Payne Whitney and Lord Charles Beresford in England, and "Skeets" Garner is to pilot the thoroughbreds of Eugene Leigh in France.

THE ROLE OF KING JOHN.

King John is not a very popular role. The character lacks development that would give enough intensity to the principal situations. Mr. Mantell's production might correct this technical but vital defect, but it doesn't. Maybe it will when Manager Brady comes to have entirely his own way. The action of the drama is naturally heavy, lumbered; hence the players of the leading roles must excel, or whatever possibilities for effect exist will be lost.

Of course, I do not mean to paint the Shakespearean tragedy of "King John" to be linked dullness long drawn out. I do not deny that King John denounces the pope. Denouncing is his hobby. Nor can one overlook the fact that he invites Robert de Barch to murder the little prince. These and other denunciations necessarily call for action. They are action.
